Love and Compassion

Approaching the
37 Practices of a Bodhisattva

Thaye Dorje, His Holiness the 17th Gyalwa Karmapa, describes the way of life of a bodhisattva, according to the text of the Buddhist teacher Gyelse Togme Zangpo. Bodhisattvas practise the understanding and gradual application of enlightenment mind, the focus on love and compassion.

The Karmapas are a lineage of bodhisattvas, embodiments of love and compassion, dating back to the 12th century. Karmapa Thaye Dorje is the 17th incarnation of this lineage.
